and Sustain

These weekend seminars challenge and educate local churches to move to the next level in their current missions strategy and to more effectively partner with and support their missionaries. Local churches will interact with missions leaders to discover means by which to strategically refine their missions program, or discover a place to begin if they do not yet have one.

/ORIENT/

to find one's position
in relation to new
and strange surroundings

This two-week pre-departure training equips prospective cross-cultural workers with inspiration for spiritual formation, guidelines for leaving well, coping strategies for culture shock, principles and approaches for cultural adaptation and interpersonal skills, methods for team building, awareness of issues related to families and to singleness and strategies for cross-cultural effectiveness.

/ACQUIRE/

to learn or develop a skill; to gain through
experience

Applying effective techniques and possessing a constructive attitude significantly improve the language learner's success in the language acquisition process. This results in increased effectiveness and longevity on the field. This two-week intensive training empowers cross-cultural workers with best practices in current strategies and tools for language acquisition.

/ABIDE/

to continue without fading or being lost

Re-entry is a time of diverse emotions and expectations, which can lead to an unexpected sense of frustration, grief and isolation. This one-week retreat for those transitioning back into their "home culture" debriefs the cross-cultural experience, explores reverse culture shock and equips families and individuals for a healthy re-entry into their home culture.
